Trademark Description

The edge of the design (logo) is circular. There is a thin black band around it. Toward the centre, a wide band is formed by a group of white geometrical forms on a black background. There are ninety-six (96) oval shapes, thirty-six (36) triangular shapes placed among twelve (12) circular shapes arranged like the numbers of a clock. Continuing toward the centre, there is a thin black circular band. In the centre of the ring described above, a circle is divided by the symbolic representation of two (2) inverted astrological Leo signs connected to one another. This division (referring to the circle) forms two (2) sections in the background, a white one on the left-hand side and a black one on the right-hand side. In the centre of the previously described two (2) astrological Leo signs, appears the name of the trademark written in white (UNITVERSE SOCIETY). On the edges of the symbolic representation of the two (2) Leo signs, which form a circle, appear two (2) lion heads ornamented with the same band that was described above and which hides them (referring to the circular edges of the symbolic representation of the two (2) Leo signs). The medallion on the left, formed by the lion head and its ornament, is white on a black background, and the eyes of the lion are ornamented with rubies (therefore red). The letter A appears in the twelve (12) circles inside this medallion's ornament's ring. The medallion on the right, formed by the lion head and its ornament, is black on a white background and the eyes of the lion are ornamented with emeralds (therefore green). The letter P appears in the twelve (12) circles inside this medallion's ornament's ring. Finally, in the most central part or section of the design (logo) and its part or section that is furthest in the background, above the name of the trademark (UNITVERSE SOCIETY), and in the right-hand section on a black background, appears a white flash of light.
